Types of Activities

Examples of some of our most popular activities:

Canoe

Hop into one of our open canoes, grab a paddle and let the fun commence. Great for developing communication skills and team work, canoeing regularly gets a big thumbs up from our clients.

Kayak

Smaller and more nimble than canoes, these craft are great at building a strong sense of independence on the water. For larger groups, we combine these with canoes for a varied day on the loch.

River Raft

All aboard for a wet and wild adventure down the river! Rafting is all about team work, communication and getting the adrenaline going. An exciting experience for all age groups and abilities.

Gorge Walk

Gorge walking is all about scrambling, swimming, slipping and sliding around a dramatic river environment, complete with jumps and flumes. Get ready to explore nature's very own water park.

More of our popular activities:

Hill Walk

So much more than just plodding up a slope! Explore the hills of the Cairngorm and Monadhliath ranges, learn about local flora and fauna, hear local legends and admire splendid, panoramic views.

Rock Climb/Abseil

Prepare for a great day of challenges and rewards as we head to the crags. With a range of climbs to suit all abilities, we can keep the focus of the day on personal achievement rather than scary heights.

Mountain Bike*

Get those pedals cranking as we head off on two-wheeled adventures. Zip around forestry tracks, visit remote lochs or try and hone your balance and agility with our bike skills challenges.

Ski/Snowboard

Make the most of winter weather by learning how to slide down a slope in style. Snowsports can challenge your coordination/lateral thinking and deliver a great sense of success.

*£10pp/pd subsidy applies

Also available: orienteering, duckies, nature walk, camping expeditions, John Muir Award, DofE Award...

Team Challenges and Problem Solving

Using the natural environment of the countryside, we set up a series of strategic challenges based on problem solving, team work and decision making. This results in participants building self-confidence, establishing trust and understanding how to resolve conflict. These whole day events are normally based on an orienteering course and run in teams of approximately 4 – 8. En route, teams will face a variety of thought provoking and physical challenges that can only be overcome by applying teamwork and initiative. The degree of difficulty that is set for each course will depend on the age and abilities of the group. This will be discussed with the school organiser at the planning phase.

More than just a fun day out

Here at Active, we have always encouraged and motivated young people to succeed by supporting and praising them in their endeavours. We aim for them to leave here filled with inspiration and confidence in their new abilities, both physical and psychological.

The company is proud to support both the Curriculum for Excellence and Learning Outside the Classroom. We fully endorse the idea that it is essential for young people to have learning experiences that extend beyond the school walls. Our instructors work hard to ensure that our activities involve more than just fun and games for young people, they also deliver a deeper sense of learning about both themselves and the great outdoors.

Craigower Lodge Outdoor Centre is open throughout the year, meaning that outdoor learning opportunities aren't limited to the summer months. We are well practiced at adapting to the changeable weather that is so familiar to Scotland, so no matter when you visit us, we will provide your group with a range of challenging, inspiring and fun experiences.

Traditionally, schools visiting Active have taken the experience back to their classroom to build on and benefit further from the learning that young people have gained here. Should you feel your school or group would benefit from a more structured approach to 'Learning in the Outdoors' whilst here, please contact the office and we will be happy to discuss your needs.
